Production and Distribution of Writing

State Standards	Objective	Examples
W.6.5 With some guidance and support from peers and adults, develop and strengthen writing as needed by planning, revising, editing, rewriting, or trying a new approach. (Editing for conventions should demonstrate command of Language standards 1–3 up to and including grade 6.)	Students will: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • Revise writing to strengthen appeal, clarity, or information. • Edit writing to improve use of conventions. • Peers edit writing and give feedback. • Use feedback to improve writing. 	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> • Sixth grade students share their work with each other in order to give and receive feedback during the writing process. Students move from planning to drafting, revising, editing, and rewriting when necessary. The use of peer editing partners/groups enables students to obtain feedback from classmates in order to strengthen their writing skills. Teachers may provide students with a checklist to use when reviewing their peers' papers.
W.6.6 Use technology, including the Internet, to produce and publish writing as well as to interact and collaborate with others; demonstrate sufficient command of keyboarding skills to create a piece of writing.	Students will: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • Include multimedia components and visual displays in presentations to clarify information. • Utilize technology to publish writing. • Draw on technology to collaborate with others. • Employ effective keyboarding skills to create a piece of writing. 	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> • Students can use tools including blogs and wikis to develop their writing and communicate with students in their classes. Teachers may guide students toward internet tools already available to them, which allow students to upload documents and participate in collaborative work groups.

Research to Build and Present Knowledge

State Standards	Objective	Examples
W.6.7 Conduct short research projects to answer a question, drawing on several sources and refocusing the inquiry when appropriate.	Students will: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • Define a problem. • Formulate questions about the problem. • Locate variety of digital and or print resources. 	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> • Sixth grade students will conduct short research projects. To ensure deep understanding of the writing prompt, teachers may first assign students to break down and re-state the prompt in their own words. • Students may then brainstorm and compile a list of sources they could use for their project. The teacher should reinforce the idea that a list of sources may change as students' research progresses. This allows students to refocus the intent of the research when appropriate.
W.6.8 Gather relevant information from multiple print and digital sources; assess the credibility of each source; and quote or paraphrase the data and conclusions of others while avoiding plagiarism and providing basic bibliographic information for sources.	Students will: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • Develop search terms (vocabulary). • Develop effective search strategies. • Evaluate resources for reliability and validity. • Avoid plagiarism by using purposeful notes that include direct quotes, paraphrasing, or own conclusions. • Cite sources using appropriate bibliographic information. 	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> • Students learn to gather relevant information from multiple print and digital sources to support research product(s). They develop the ability to judge each source and assess its overall accuracy and value to the task.

W.6.9 Draw evidence from literary or informational texts to support analysis, reflection, and research;	Students will: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> Use a variety of references as appropriate to support writing. 	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> In conjunction with the reading standards for literature and informational texts, students draw evidence from what they read to support their research. They also learn how to best integrate the information without plagiarizing. Students practice citing sources and weaving in the information into their own work. Students will also include a works cited page detailing all sources used in proper format. Students in sixth grade are able to draw from texts, either literary or informational to support research, analysis, and reflection. Students are able to compare and contrast literary works that span genres with flexibility and ease and translate their ideas into specified written pieces -- reflective, analytical or both. By the same token, students must be able to evaluate the validity of the key details that support claims within informational pieces.
a. Apply grade 6 Reading standards to literature (e.g., “Compare and contrast texts in different forms or genres [e.g., stories and poems; historical novels and fantasy stories] in terms of their approaches to similar themes and topics.”);	Students will: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> Analyze themes and topics across genres.
b. Apply grade 6 Reading standards to literary nonfiction (e.g., “Trace and evaluate the argument and specific claims in a text, distinguishing claims that are supported by reasons and evidence from claims that are not”).	Students will: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> Evaluate nonfiction based on claims that are supported and those that are not.
W.6.10 Write routinely over extended time frames (time for research, reflection, and revision) and shorter time frames (a single sitting or a day or two) for a range of discipline-specific tasks, purposes, and audiences.	Students will: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> Use the writing process appropriately for specific extended writing projects. Adjust the writing process appropriately for shorter writing projects. 	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> Engage in numerous writing pieces throughout the year. Students write with a broad range of tasks, purposes, and audiences in mind. In addition, students should produce writing over both extended and shorter time frames.

Speaking and Listening Standards

Comprehension and Collaboration

State Standards	Objective	Examples
SL.6.1 Engage effectively in a range of collaborative discussions (one-on-one, in groups, and teacher-led) with diverse partners on grade 6 topics, texts, and issues, building on others’ ideas and expressing their own clearly; a. Come to discussions prepared, having read or studied required material; explicitly draw on that preparation by referring to evidence on the topic, text, or issue to probe and reflect on ideas under discussion; b. Follow rules for collegial discussions (e.g., establishing norms: taking turns, paraphrasing, respecting diverse viewpoints), set specific goals and deadlines, and define individual roles as needed; c. Pose and respond to specific questions with elaboration and detail by making comments that contribute to the topic, text, or issue under discussion; d. Review the key ideas expressed and demonstrate understanding of multiple perspectives through reflection and paraphrasing.	Students will: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> Prepare for and participate effectively in a range of collaborative discussions. Apply rigorous strategic thinking (application, explanation, perspective-taking, interpretation, perspective, empathy, and self-knowledge). Use specific vocabulary to argue, draw contrasts, and indicate agreement and/or disagreement. Restate and/or paraphrase the statements of others. 	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> Arrange an “academic conference” to be held by the class on a topic/text on which students have previously written (perhaps you have studied the political process, global warming, the mapping of the human genome, etc.). Create a schedule for your conference, including your plenary speaker, a time for refreshments, breakout discussion groups, etc. Within this academic conference (which will be valuable for modeling to students what such a thing looks and feels like) students-either individually or in teams-will present on a topic working from a previously written paper. The paper should be delivered with an audience handout in a format such as Prezi, PowerPoint, I-Movie, etc. Consider inviting interested parties from your school to participate in the conference (invite speakers from the science department for example)

SL.6.2 Interpret information presented in diverse media (included but not limited to podcasts) and formats (e.g., visually, quantitatively/data-related, orally) and explain how it contributes to a topic, text, or issue under study.	Students will: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> Analyze information from both text (print) and non-text (photos, sound effects, animation, illustration, variation in font and color) elements. Analyze strategies used by media to entertain and influence people. 	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> Sample Task for Integration: Split the class into 3 or 4 teams. You will assign all students a common research topic (tied to texts under consideration by the class), but each team will only be allowed to conduct research in one medium (one team will use only websites, another will use only televised news or documentaries, another only print sources, etc.) Have each team create a PowerPoint or Prezi presenting their findings. Have students take careful notes on each presentation, noting the differences in information gathered from the different sources. After the presentations engage students in a collaborative discussion on the ways in which the information was shaped and filtered by the medium through which it was retrieved. Students may be required to write a brief analysis or response on their findings.
SL.6.3 Delineate a speaker’s argument and specific claims, distinguishing claims that are supported by reasons and evidence from claims that are not.	Students will: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> Critique presentations with regard to logic or presentation of evidence for arguments. Examine information regarding the credibility of the speaker or media message. Recognize faulty reasoning and bias in presentations and media. 	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> Have students watch an archived presidential debate from a previous election. You will find a wealth of televised debates available for viewing on the internet. After viewing, take a straw poll to determine which candidate the students believe to have been the strongest performer in the debate and discuss the reasons influencing their choice. After the discussion, provide students in small groups with a transcript of the debate (network broadcasts provides transcripts online, or students can take notes). Have students fact-check assertions made in the transcripts and present a report that statistically profiles the accuracy claims made by the candidates. Conclude this inquiry with a whole-class discussion of factual accuracy versus emotional and visual appeal of the candidates.
Presentation of Knowledge and Ideas
State Standards	Objective	Examples
SL.6.4 Present claims and findings, sequencing ideas logically and using pertinent descriptions, facts, and details to accentuate main ideas or themes; use appropriate eye contact, adequate volume, and clear pronunciation.	Students will: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> Demonstrate a well-organized presentation with a clear introduction, body, and well- drawn conclusions. Use expression, tone, and pitch where appropriate to emphasize aspects of events or people while speaking directly to the audience and making eye contact with individuals. 	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> Study the rules of Team Policy Debate (a formal debate structure used by most high schools and colleges: http://stoaca.org/main/sites/default/files/StoaTPRules.pdf.) This format provides structure for the number of minutes each speaker will have the floor, the number of assertions and rebuttals, etc. Separate the class into two teams and allow them to research a major scientific question of our day, considering and annotating multiple appropriate texts. Allow students an allotted amount of time to prepare for the debate. Student arguments must be supported by citable evidence.

SL.6.5 Include multimedia components (e.g., graphics, images, music, and sound) and visual displays in presentations to clarify information.	Students will: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> Communicate knowledge through multimedia presentations, desktop published reports, and other electronic media. 	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> For the presentation of an academic paper or research, challenge students to present their findings in the most unusual way that they can. Students may research the newest presentation platforms (PowerPoint has been supplanted by Prezi and Rocket Slide in recent years, and new platforms are emerging all the time). They might use a blog, a wiki, YouTube, an I-Movie, a trifold poster board with holographic pictures, etc. Encourage them think outside the box, mixing old and new technologies, adding sound tracks, employing live “actors,” using social media, or PR strategies such as flash mobs. Be creative! If necessary put students in teams to cut down on presentation time. At the conclusion of the activity, have students discuss which presentations were most effective and why. Give careful, analytical attention to the “why” question. “Because it was the most fun” or “most interesting” is not an adequate literary analysis! Examine diction, tone, colors, audience awareness, connotations, etc.
SL.6.6 Adapt speech to a variety of contexts and tasks, demonstrating command of formal English when indicated or appropriate. (See grade 6 Language standards 1 and 3 for specific expectations.)	Students will: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> Demonstrate the use of specific language for different kinds of presentations (dramatic, narrative, reports, news programs). 	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> To illustrate the ways in which we adapt speech, provide students with a neutral paragraph from a text under consideration by the class. Charge the students with rewriting this paragraph for various audiences, for example for a little child, a complete stranger, a very good friend, or someone who doesn’t speak English very well. Consider the various versions of the paragraphs through discussion with the class, perhaps using a document viewer to consider the examples. Have students identify the exact elements they changed; was it the length of the sentences, the complexity of the words, the number of words, the sentence construction (verb/noun, noun/verb, passive/active, etc.) Have students think critically about why they make certain choices for certain audiences.

Language Standards

Conventions of Standard English

State Standards	Objective	Examples
L.6.1 Demonstrate command of the conventions of standard English grammar and usage when writing or speaking; a. Ensure that pronouns are in the proper case (subjective, objective, possessive); b. Use intensive pronouns (e.g., myself, ourselves); c. Recognize and correct inappropriate shifts in pronoun number and person; d. Recognize and correct vague pronouns (i.e., ones with unclear or ambiguous antecedents); e. Recognize variations from standard English in their own and others’ writing and speaking, and identify and use strategies to improve expression in conventional language.	Students will: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> Use nouns, verbs, pronouns, adjectives, adverbs, and prepositions in agreement and in conventional order within sentences. Identify and use subjective, objective, possessive, intensive, and vague pronouns and their antecedents. Identify and use diction (formal and informal language) and various dialects. Demonstrate how diction and dialect can be used to improve expression in conventional language. 	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> Make students aware of the grammatical focus for your grade level as you undertake attentive reading of an extended or short text. Create a chart where students receive points for each instance they are able to identify (when reading in class) of grammatical concept in grade 6, such as pronoun types, pronoun/antecedent agreement, vague pronouns, correct use of reflexive pronouns, etc. As items are identified they can be discussed within that “teachable moment,” and students who spot the items will not only becoming adept at recognizing the construction, but will may become engaged in the hunt through the competition and possible rewards, such as a homework pass.

L.6.2 Demonstrate command of the conventions of standard English capitalization, punctuation, and spelling when writing; a. Use punctuation (commas, parentheses, dashes) to set off nonrestrictive/parenthetical elements; b. Spell correctly.	Students will: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • Identify and demonstrate special uses of capitalization (titles, headings, emphasis). • Use commas and parentheses to set off parenthetical information. • Spell a large number of high-frequency words, a wide range of plurals, and base words with inflectional endings. 	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> • Have students choose one piece of previously-graded writing from their portfolio. • Students will exchange these papers with a partner who will grade that paper on capitalization, punctuation, and spelling ONLY. A guidance sheet listing specific items to check may be provided to scaffold this exercise. Students will check for comma usage, capitalization, and spelling, taking off 5 points for every error. Normally, a paper with great content may have several grammar and conventions errors and still be an “A” paper. Within these parameters, we are able to examine a paper on conventions alone, allowing a student to get a snapshot of his or her performance in that category alone

Vocabulary Acquisition and Use

State Standards	Objective	Examples
L.6.3 Use knowledge of language and its conventions when writing, speaking, reading, or listening; a. Vary sentence patterns for meaning, reader/listener interest, and style; b. Maintain consistency in style and tone.	Students will: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • Demonstrate knowledge of language and conventions by varying sentence structure and length for reasons of craft. 	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> • Have students choose one or more essays from their portfolio (essays must be available in an electronic format) for review with attention to sentence fluency. • Using a chart or spreadsheet, have students analyze their writing to find out what percentage of their sentences are simple, compound, etc. • Have them count instances of active and passive voice, words over-used as sentence starters (for example “I” or “The”). A preliminary activity might be to have students brainstorm and create a fluency checklist or worksheet to use for this purpose. • To perform a qualitative and quantitative analysis of their sentence construction, compiling a list of targeted areas for improvement that will be attached to the writing portfolio for reference. • An extension of this activity would be to allow students to rewrite one of the pieces to improve fluency for bonus points.
L.6.4 Determine or clarify the meaning of unknown and multiple-meaning words and phrases based on grade 6 reading and content, choosing flexibly from a range of strategies; a. Determine meaning of unfamiliar words by using knowledge of word structure (root words, prefixes, suffixes, abbreviations) and language structure through reading words in text (word order, grammar), context (e.g., the overall meaning of a sentence or paragraph; a word’s position or function in a sentence) as a clue to the meaning of a word or phrase; b. Use common, grade- appropriate Greek or Latin affixes and roots as clues to the meaning of a word (e.g., audience, auditory, audible); c.
